

Unknowingly, you have broken many people's heart. We never thought you would go so far that even after unimaginable struggle we won't match your level. You have literally slapped our faces saying that we don't deserve you. You would be thinking who is this writing this and to me, I am just sharing my thoughts because I can't wait more telling about me. Since you were a bright student everyone in this world would obviously like you. As you were interested to be noticed. Almost everyone was interested in you. But don't know why you were available for everyone, responded to everyone.

Sometime people don't know that there are surprisingly many people who waste their life thinking about someone who never thought of them. People are afraid of saying, sometimes they don't want to lose you for now, because they are planning something for the future that is unimaginable. They live just on hopes that they would approach when it is the right moment. In this thought they forget to live present.

Those dreams never come true for some people. People say if you work hard dreams come true. But they never tell that dreams coming true just an exception that hardly achieved by some by luck. Everyone has dreams, we think and get mad about it and as time passes those dreams just really remain dreams and those were only because they were never meant to happen.

My dream was to ask you after my education. But God had some different plan. As we go further in life things become more clear that our dreams are worthless. Things that are never going to happen.

I don't know why I am so mad at you just thinking you of you even after realising you are just a dream. Since after I saw you last time, everything has just went down. At that time suppose we are on graph at 0, some people grow linearly i.e go for good education, good people, good money, on this graph people grow suppose by 1 point or 2 points or suppose 5, here you growing with 10 points that is huge. When I look towards me I am just going down.

At every step of my life I was just going down, ruining my life. After this when I see the graph of life I see you at the top of the graph reaching heights, me going in negative points. Some people are really lucky who get exceptionally great parents, friends, environment and luck most importantly. Luck is equally important in life.

It is not your fault, you are just giving your best. Only one issue that people would find in you, don't know whether it is there now or not, is that, suppose if you would try to guess who I am, then there are many for you to guess.

Once I asked you what is your birthtime. And you didn't reply. Don't worry it was not a spam and not even this, I am not here to harm you. This timing was really important for me. I was just very eager to know for the future. But no worries let it be. This message basically not for you but for me, so in when future whenever I would look back I won't regret that I didn't tried.

Obviously the username that I use are not my name. After sending this message this account may get block withing 5 to 6 hours or more. So you won't be able to reply.

For you it would be hard to guess me. So let me help you telling that I am not on Instagram. Clearly telling that I do not have instagram account even not in the past.

The place where you are reading this is public profile. Don't worry no one going to read this even after that they won't be able figure out who we are.

If you have reached till here that means you have read this. But how will I get to know that you have read this. For me if you would change that butterfly on your Instagram to some thing else for a day within 2 days after receiving this.

If you think I am worthless, block my account, if till that time if it's not banned. But if it is banned than I will not be able to know whether you blocked or not. So for that you change your butterfly from Instagram account to a plant or leaf.